CERRE TO CLOSE X (FORMERLY TWITTER) ACCOUNT TO UPHOLD ITS VALUES

Brussels, 11 December 2023

The Centre on Regulation in Europe (CERRE), the Brussels-based, independent think, has taken the decision to discontinue its presence on the X platform (formerly Twitter). As of 10 December, the UN Human Rights Day, the CERRE X account has therefore been formally deactivated.

Expressing concerns about the reliability of the X platform for dissemination, CERRE deems it also incompatible with its mission and values to continue promoting its activities on the X platform.

"This move is aligned with CERRE's commitment to upholding values that prioritise citizen's fundamental rights and consumer protection", says Director General, Bruno Liebhaberg.

CERRE invites its audience to connect with the organisation on alternative platforms such as LinkedIn and Youtube, as well as on the CERRE site.
